The President Speaks

A WORD that has been nearly lost from our vocabulary, both in home and school, is coming back—the word “discipline.” At least a quarter of a century ago Professor Barrett Wendell of Harvard remarked that the modern system of education seemed to be, “Find out what everybody likes to do, and then help him to do it as kindly as you can”—the kindergarten method. The results of this method have not been entirely satisfactory either in the home or in the school. We now find ourselves face-to-face with a situation demanding a more strenuous curriculum, and college presidents as well as the military authorities are calling for a more realistic approach to the serious days that confront us. In announcing our five-point program this was made emphatic, and in the Convocation Sermon Dr. Warren Bowman also stressed the need for spiritual discipline.

Perhaps our reaction from discipline has been due to the false notion that it is synonymous with regimentation. The goal of all true discipline, however, is self-discipline through which one may rise superior to the circumstances which confine him and by which he is able to hold in leash the impulses which drive him toward uncontrolled selfishness, wrongly called “self-expression.” We have perhaps come round once again to believe in such statements as Huxley's: “The most valuable result of an education is the ability to make yourself do the thing you ought to do when it ought to be done, whether you like it or not.” Let us hope that the words discipline and duty upon our lips once more will mean not merely the restoration of two good words to our vocabulary but the restoration of valuable realities to our life.

I am confident that not only our students here, but our alumni everywhere, many of whom are already in service, will respond to this challenge and go forward to every duty in the spirit of Juniata.

THE TALK OF THE CAMPUS

The Changing Scene

IT is no longer, "college as usual" on the Juniata campus. Students realized this when they heard President Ellis' opening chapel address which presented his five-point program for the new year. It was in effect a new way of living on a college campus during war time.

Quoting the president, "On every hand we are told that the need of the hour is for discipline—that honorable pedagogical term that has fallen out of the vocabulary of the modern pedagogue, probably because we have made it synonymous with regimentation. On second thought, however, most of us will concede its value not only for the days of the war but for efficient living in the days of peace.

No one of us may be master of the circumstances that condition our lives but every one of us may be master of those inner resources which constitute self-discipline and which enable us to 'stand up to life.' It is still the function of education to strengthen those resources of conscience, of courage and conviction which will enable us to 'distinguish the things that differ' and to approve the things that are excellent.

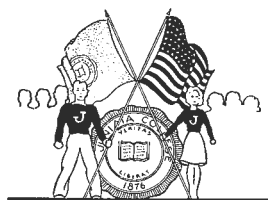

In recognition of the demands of the nation in this hour of crisis and of the adjustment of the college not only to these demands but to the needs of our own academic cooperative fellowship in the tasks of the hour, I propose the following Five-Point Program not for our intellectual consideration merely but for our active implementation:

1. Care and economy in the use of every expendable resource, and of all college facilities.
2. Increased attention to health and physical exercise for every student.
3. Serious application to all intellectual tasks.
4. Cheerful acceptance of every necessary personal sacrifice, and willing service to the community and the nation.
5. Continual and humble dependence upon the divine strength and guidance."

This set of rules is intended to meet the present situation but in fact it re-emphasizes what has always been the fundamental ideals of the college. Therefore, Juniata College did not need to reverse itself to make this adjustment. It becomes a matter of firmness in application. Some representative ramification of the rules include such regulations as a five hour per week physical fitness program for all men, lights out at twelve o'clock midnight, no automobiles on the campus, and a curtailment of extra-curricular activities.

All during the summer, college students were told from different sources including the government that for those who were to have privileges of higher education, a more vigorous program would be in order. Army and navy instructions are that, "The country can no longer afford to have young men proceed with their education at a moderate tempo."

President Seymour, who claims that Yale students are in college "on borrowed time" further states that, "There is no longer any place for the student who treats his years in college as a means of postponing hard work and enjoying an interlude of country club existence." From Lafayette, President Lewis commented that "officially, the college has a distinct obligation to report to government authorities the names of those students who do not prepare rigorously, who neither subject themselves to self-discipline, nor cooperate in those measures devised to place them ultimately on an equal or higher basis of physical and mental fitness with the young men of enemy countries whose supreme ambition is to destroy our way of life and our beloved institutions."

Calendar Change

The acceleration of the college term made it necessary to alter the previously announced schedule. Homecoming and Parents Day were combined on October 17 with classes in the morning. Mountain

Day was an afternoon outing (hike from the campus) with classes in the morning.

Because the Thanksgiving recess will be eliminated, the first semester will close January 23. Second semester will begin January 25 and close with commencement May 31. Alumni Day will therefore be on May 29.

New Faculty Members

The 1942-1943 college faculty personnel shows five new members. They are Miss Mary Ruth Myers (announced in the August bulletin), Miss Eleanor Chapin, Miss Mary Ellen Kensinger, Professor Herman Scholl, and Professor Oscar F. Stambaugh.

Miss Chapin, instructor in clothing in the home economics department, is a graduate of MacMurray College, Illinois, and has her master's degree from Teachers College, Columbia University. Miss Kensinger, R.N., the college nurse, is a graduate of the Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown, Maryland. She is a sister of Wilmer Kensinger, '28, Naomi Kensinger, '36, and Lola Kensinger, a junior.

Mr. Scholl has a noteworthy professional music background. He holds a master of music degree from the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, and a master of arts degree from Teachers College, Columbia University. His bachelor's degree was also taken at Eastman with a major in clarinet and he has also studied at the Juilliard School of Music in New York City. He has had two years of public school music experience at Farmingdale, Long Island, N. Y. Mr. Scholl was for three years first clarinetist in Erno Rapee's Radio City Music Hall symphony and has been clarinetist with the Rochester Philharmonic and the New York Civic Orchestra.

Mr. Stambaugh, instructor in chemistry, received his master's degree from The Pennsylvania State College and has had teaching experience at the Pottsville and the Uniontown undergraduate centers of Pennsylvania State College for the last seven years in analytical chemistry. He finished his research for his Ph.D. at Penn State on the determination of anionomy.

Professor Myers Tribute

June 1, 1942

The Trustees of Juniata College desire to record their deep sense of loss to the College in the unexpected passing of Oscar R. Myers, Treasurer of the College.

His service to Juniata as teacher and treasurer covered a period of thirty-seven years. In the earlier years he was active in field service for the College, and for many years he was chairman of the Athletic Committee and contributed to the development of the athletic program of the College in which he was much interested.

His devotion to the cause of Christian education was widely recognized not only locally but in the state at large. His long-time connection with the State Sabbath School Association and his sponsorship and direction of Camp Kanessatake were coordinated with and consistent with his devotion to Juniata as a Christian College.

In expressing their sense of loss the Trustees wish also to record their sympathy for his wife and daughter and to request that these expressions not only be conveyed to them but made a part of the permanent records of the College and given recognition in the college publications.

Chemistry Enrollment

The enrollment in chemistry courses at Juniata College has this year hit a new high of one hundred and thirteen students—approximately one-fourth of the student body. This marks an increase in chemistry enrollment of almost 33% over 1941-1942.

The increase is "all along the line," according to Dr. N. J. Brumbaugh, head of the chemistry department. While the predominant career interest is chemistry, others are taking pre-medical, pre-dental, and home economics courses.

The three most important factors in the increase of enrollment are: the new rating of Juniata's chemistry department, the large freshman classes of recent years, and the war situation.

Recently the chemistry department was accredited by the American Chemical Society. Out of the five hundred institutions which applied, only one hundred and twenty were accredited in the country and fourteen in Pennsylvania.

Summer Graduates

At the seventeenth Summer School Commencement on August 22, 1942, President Charles C. Ellis conferred the degree of Bachelor of Science upon Ruth Anderson, James Botteicher, Mary Brown, Francis Gahagan, Margaret Gluck, Carrie Moser and Gilbert Shimmel.

The new accelerated program initiated this summer brought to the campus many upperclassmen as well as prospective freshmen.

'42 Class Memorial

Leaving a fitting memorial for a class that continually was "on top" during its years at College, the Class of 1942 presented the College and its students with an outdoor fireplace at an impressive ceremony held on campus the night of October 24.

The fireplace, of beautiful stone construction, is located at the northern end of the campus, at the edge of the new golf course. It was designed by Mr. S. M. Hess and built through his direction with funds supplied by the class.

Mr. Edmund Minaya, a graduate of '42 made the presentation. Dr. Calvert Ellis gave a speech of acceptance and thanks on behalf of the faculty and administration, and Tom Cooney accepted the gift on behalf of the student body.

Friends of the Library

Although the College Library is making no special effort to receive consideration during these days of national crisis, it is very gratifying to note the many gifts that come from those who have new appreciation for the things Juniata College meant to them as students.

Especially noteworthy is the record of Albert Bair, '42 ex, remembered by many as "Jake" when he was a familiar figure on campus. A gift of twelve dollars was received in July, followed in early October by another five dollars; and within a short time from Camp Davis in North Carolina where he is now located came another cordial letter with a ten-dollar bill to add to the Friends of the Library Fund. Twenty-seven dollars from a Juniatian in the armed forces as his recognition of the importance of keeping alive and strong the best things in American living — among them, worthwhile books!

As a result of the excellent efforts of a committee including Lt. Melvin Rhodes, Mary Radebach Zentmyer, and Jean Foulke, the Class of 1938 has begun an endowment fund as their contribution to the Friends of the Library Movement. Through solicitation by the committee a sum of more than sixty dollars was turned over to the Library at Commencement in June, 1942, as the beginning of a fund they hope to see grow through the years, the interest of which will be used in the purchase of good books not provided for by the funds set aside to fill classroom needs.

Important in the events of the summer was the response from a great many graduates of the Chemistry Department to the plea made by Dr. Norman Brumbaugh for their support in continuing growth on the basis of the distinction which comes to the Department with its accrediting by the American Chemical Society. To date ten "old grads" have given a total of sixty-five dollars to be spent for books in the field of chemistry: They include Elizabeth Aughey '30, Samuel J. King '28, Arthur Aikey '39, Mrs. Jane (Gehrett) Degnan '35, Melvin L. McCreary '35, Paul Haines, '41, Samuel M. Liven-good '38, George L. Beyer '41, Walter J. Hamer '29, and Eva Hartzler '32.

These gifts are particularly appreciated, for it is in this way that the Juniata College Library can continue to develop with increasing effectiveness.

FALL, 1942

Office of the President

The Alumni Association
Juniata College

Dear Alumni:

The more I study the present conditions at our college, the more firmly I am convinced that she has been making a go of things in spite of current abnormal adversities. For those of us who have been out of college for a few years, it is hard to realize the vast change made at Juniata.

I know that colleges in general have made rapid strides, yet it is a very comforting feeling to know that our own alma mater is more than holding her own.

As the new president of our national alumni association, I take pleasure in giving this report that the college is making a good account of her stewardship. Naturally, part of this account is the graduate record, and here, all of us have a responsibility to maintain a good name for ourselves as well as for the institution which we represent.

Since the college has built behind each graduate a splendid reputation, are we not challenged to give to it a wider influence and support? Do you not believe that Juniata is one of the institutions worthy of preservation?

Sincerely,

Harrisburg, Pa.
October 17, 1942

WM. R. FLORY, President

Homecoming and Parent's Day

This year's Parents' Day and Homecoming were combined on Saturday, October 17 to reduce the fall's activity program. At the same time it gave a double excuse for the use of gas coupons so they came—about five hundred alumni, parents and friends.

They saw a highly spirited Juniata football team make a second half revival to score 22 points and win over Susquehanna University by a score of 22-12. The day was climaxed by the "J" Club banquet at the Huntingdon Country Club.

They heard Alumni President William R. Flory '21, Dr. Claude R. Flory '29, George B. Replogle '15, and President Ellis at different week-end meetings. Classes met on Saturday to renew a custom of years past.

Choir presents Pinafore

The Juniata College A Cappella Choir, directed by Professor Charles L. Rowland, will present in Oller Hall on December the eleventh "H. M. S. Pinafore," by Gilbert and Sullivan.

The presentation of this operetta is to take the place of the major choir tour. The eastern tour is impossible this year because of the present emergency.

The cast for the operetta has been chosen from the choir and consists of the following people:

Sir Joseph—Merle Bair, '44

Captain Corcoran—

Garwood Holsinger, '43

Ralph Rackstraw—Bruce Briggs, '45

Dick Deadeye—Ross Bierly, '44

Boatswain—Daniel Long, '45

Carpenter's Mate—

Richard Long, '43

Josephine—Evelyn Springer, '44

Hebe—Elaine Albert, '45

Buttercup—Barbara Boyd, '45

All the dramatics, the scenery, and the costumes will be under the capable supervision of Mrs. Peter McCann. Approximately twenty members of the Orchestral Society under the direction of Mr. Herman Scholl will furnish the instrumental accompaniment for the production.

The choir began working on the operetta the week of October eighteen. Prior to this time, Professor Rowland and the choir had been working on the sacred music to be used in their local concerts. Following the production of "H. M. S. Pinafore," the choir will resume work on their religious repertoire.

Mr. Price—Treasurer

President Ellis has been relieved of administrative responsibilities in the Treasurer's Office by the assistance of Mr. William S. Price '84, college trustee from Royersford. Mr. Price was elected treasurer of the college at the June meeting of the board of trustees. He has spent several weeks on the campus during the summer and fall and he expects to return occasionally throughout the winter.

Chapel Renovated

The old chapel will be converted into a temporary recreation room. Trustee action supplemented with individual contributions from its members will provide increased facilities for social and recreation activities.

The Alumni Spotlight

Professor
William Beery

A GRADUATE of the Normal Course in the Brethren's Normal College in 1882, William Beery taught music here for thirty years during much of that time also giving freely of his services as a member of the Board of Trustees.

After leaving the College, he made his home in Elgin, Illinois, the location of the Brethren Publishing House, and began work for this firm, for which he had previously edited Sunday School song books. He also helped edit the Brethren Hymnal in 1901 and assisted with the publication of the New Hymnal in 1925.

Professor Beery and his wife, Adaline Hoff Beery, together contributed both music and poetry to the College and also to a wider constituency. His musical publications took the form of hymns and hymn books and he has given to the Christian Church a few hymns that will undoubtedly continue their musical message for many years. One of these, "Lo a Gleam from Yonder Heaven" was possibly sung first, certainly quite often, in the Wednesday evening prayer meetings in the Old Chapel.

Since 1937, Mr. Beery has been a member of the Allotted Time Quartette which responded to ninety-eight calls in four years. In recent years at the annual conference of his church he has led thousands of voices in the great hymns of the church including his own. He has literally sung his way across almost a century of years and certainly the world is brighter that he has passed this way.

His son and daughter, Leon and Judith (Mrs. Garber), are also included in the list of Juniata alumni. Mrs. Garber and her father are very active in the mid-west association.

Commander
Percy T. Wright

A NEAR-CHAMPIONSHIP in heavyweight wrestling, a varsity position on a Navy team that twice defeated the Army, and the presidency of the Y.M.C.A. upon his graduation from the Naval Academy in 1909—these were the first steps in a long climb upward that were to make hazardous adventure the destiny of a Juniata graduate of the class of 1905.

In between his first two assignments on the battle-ships Minnesota and Tocomo, Percy T. Wright married Florence H. Hassinger. Reporting aboard a submarine in May, 1913, he little realized that this was the branch of service in which he would make his name. In the four years following 1914, he commanded three submarines, the last being the L-9, whose name was to become as significant to the enemy as that of its commander.

The opening month of 1918 found the L-19 nosing into the Baufrey Bay, Ireland, war zone. So effective were his operations against enemy submarines that Commander Wright was awarded the Navy Cross. His assignments upon returning to the states were many and varied: officer in charge of the submarine drafting room at Portsmouth Navy Yard, commander of the submarine division of the Canal Zone, aide to the Navy Department, and in 1931, commander of the Canopus, flagship of the Asiatic submarine fleet.

Commander Wright's son Jack, '41, is in active naval service in the South Pacific.

Once rejected for active duty because of his heart, he was finally allowed to report for active shore duty last July. Though the L-9 can no longer seek out the enemy on the seas, Percy Wright is confident that newer and larger "L-9's" will play a major role in a victory he had hoped was won twenty-four years ago.

It's been a long time since a Juniata football team has started the season as close to scratch as the 1942 ensemble, and it's been a long time, too, since the squad has been so convinced that "This is the year!"

Showing off their new inverted "T" system like a child shows off a new toy, the Indians started off in a grand manner by presenting new Head Coach P. M. "Mike" Snider with a 13-9 upset victory over Drexel, and then coming through with a 22-12 Homecoming Day victory over Susquehanna. In both games the Snidermen let their foes do all their scoring in the first half and then topped them with great second-half sprees.

The strong point of the Blue and Gold outfit this year is a double-quartet of turf-churning backs. From last year's outfit come Ray Clapperton, Maurice Quint, Mickey Leeper, Chuck Bargerstock, Kermit Kitman, Sy Jaffrey, and Jim Rutledge. Right on their heels are frosh Ray Tesi and Fred Postlethwaite. Clapperton has stepped into the hard-to-fill quarterback spot with the aplomb of a Frankie Albert.

A heady signal caller, a hard and elusive runner, and a dangerous man on either end of a pass play, Ray should keep McKees Rocks, also the home of Eddie Grega, alive in J.C.'s memory. The two hundred-pound Leeper adds the power, and his ability to crack a line is backed by kicking and passing talents that make him a constant threat. Susquehanna had the ill fortune to face him at his best and he tore their line to shreds. To round out a starting quartet are Quint, a dazzling climax runner, and Kitman, a fireball left-handed passer and an ace speedster.

Up ahead the material is not quite so star-studded, but it is adequate. Captain Hollis Zwicker, a standout for three years, heads the array from his wing position. Big, rugged and fast, Zwicker started off the year with a bang, as he caught one of Kitman's passes and made a beautiful 35-yard run for the Indians' first score against Drexel. On defense he has no peer. Hank Eisenhart holds down the other flank, and his work stamps him as a capable running mate for Zwicker. It was this lanky performer that grabbed Clapperton's pass for the winning touchdown against Drexel. To spell these two are Bill Goelz, freshman, and Bill Shope, both capable terminals.

Spread out over the rest of the line is a sparse outlay of three lettermen. At tackle only Joe Smith, a vastly improved gridder, returns from last year's battles. Teamed with this rugged performer are a pair of sophs, Jim Stewart and Mike Croft, and a frosh, Jim Hitesman. Hitesman's outstanding play in both games has given him the edge for the other post. The same situation prevails at guard with only Bob Hoover on hand. Jim Herron, if he can overcome ankle troubles, will be Hoover's running mate. Until then, Leon Gottschall or Mathew Hiney, a pair of frosh, are handling the job. At center is Dennis Dunmire, starting his third year of starring for Juniata. Dunmire's stellar line-backing marks him as a standout on any grid. Soph Pete Cassalia and Red Andrews, a freshman, round out the lineup of snapper-backs.
